Call for Artists Works

31st Annual Candlelight and Holiday Season

FVAC showcases fine arts and crafts in its two galleries during the holiday season featuring public events throughout each weekend beginning on November 14, 2008. Artists are invited to submit their work for inclusion in these retail sales galleries. Work in a variety of medium are welcome: paintings, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry, glass, metals, wood, textiles, baskets and mixed media pieces are welcomed. Pieces should retail from $20 – 300 and should be available for receipt by FVAC in mid-October. Work is accepted on a consignment basis and contracts will be drafted with each exhibiting artist. Artists should contact FVAC at gallery@fvac.net to be considered for the 2008 holiday season.

Fisher Gallery

Additional exhibition opportunities offered with FVAC include solo and group shows, open juried shows, and invitational exhibits. To be considered for any of the exhibition opportunities artist may contact FVAC at gallery@fvac.net to receive ongoing prospectus. Artists may forward portfolio collateral for review of work at any time.

Artist Studios

FVAC offers 20 artist studios which become available from time to time. FVAC seeks a diverse set of artists for these studios with current artists working in a variety of medium including watercolor, oil, acrylics, mixed media, photography, clay, bronze, textiles, and etchings. Artists create, display and sell their work on site. Several Open Studio events during the year invite the public to meet the artists in their studios. Interested artists are invited to apply to the Studio Artist Program and are admitted through a jury process when studios become available. Artists looking for studio space and desirous of participating in a public arts community, should contact FVAC Executive Director, Marty Rotblatt, martyrotblatt@fvac.net.

About the Farmington Valley Arts Center

Incorporated in 1974 as a not-for-profit organization, the Farmington Valley Arts Center is dedicated to providing quality education in and through the arts. The Arts Center offers ongoing classes for adults and children, rents studio space, and operates two galleries featuring fine art and fine craft for display and sale. It also conducts outreach programs with central Connecticut schools and social services agencies and offers an intensive summer arts camp.. The Arts Center is a vibrant arts community that enables visitors to experience the entire creative process, from seeing artists at work to viewing finished creations in a gallery to learning the skills necessary to create work of their own.
